One day in the galactic heavens,
somewhere around the 23rd dimension or so;
the Golden Angels were looking to the Earth
from timelessness and the light.
They noticed that there was darkness and not enough light upon the Earth.
They all began to think and ponder as to what they might be able to do.
In their world of peace, there was great light.
And in timelessness, there was wisdom.
How could they bring these gifts to Earth?
What must they do to share in their bounty?
The Golden Angels came up with an idea.
If they could send one of their own to Earth, she could become human; but at night, when she went to sleep . . . she could be an angel again.

This former angel could dream at night.
In her dreams, she could hear the Golden Angels.
With their help, she could fly the galactic heavens, gathering its light; and bring the light to the Earth to alter the dark thoughts and deeds of mankind.

It was agreed; a Golden Angel would go to the Earth and become human.

One of the Golden Angel's stepped forward and volunteered.

As she did this, her spirit began soaring through the galactic heavens towards the Earth below.

Within moments, she found herself emerging from the womb as a tiny human baby.

Life on Earth was hard for the Golden Angel.

She'd been used to love and light; now she was surrounded by suffering.

Because she had no memory of her agreement with the Golden Angels, she prayed and prayed to God.

God answered her prayers by showing her visions of the galactic heavens from which she had come, and by showing her how she could alter some of the suffering in the world by listening to His guidance and that of His Golden Angels.

God answered her prayers by asking her to fly the galactic heavens at night to gather light and bring this light back to the Earth.

God asked her to spread light in the minds of men as they were sleeping, and to give them reminders when they were awake of their galactic heavenly homeland.

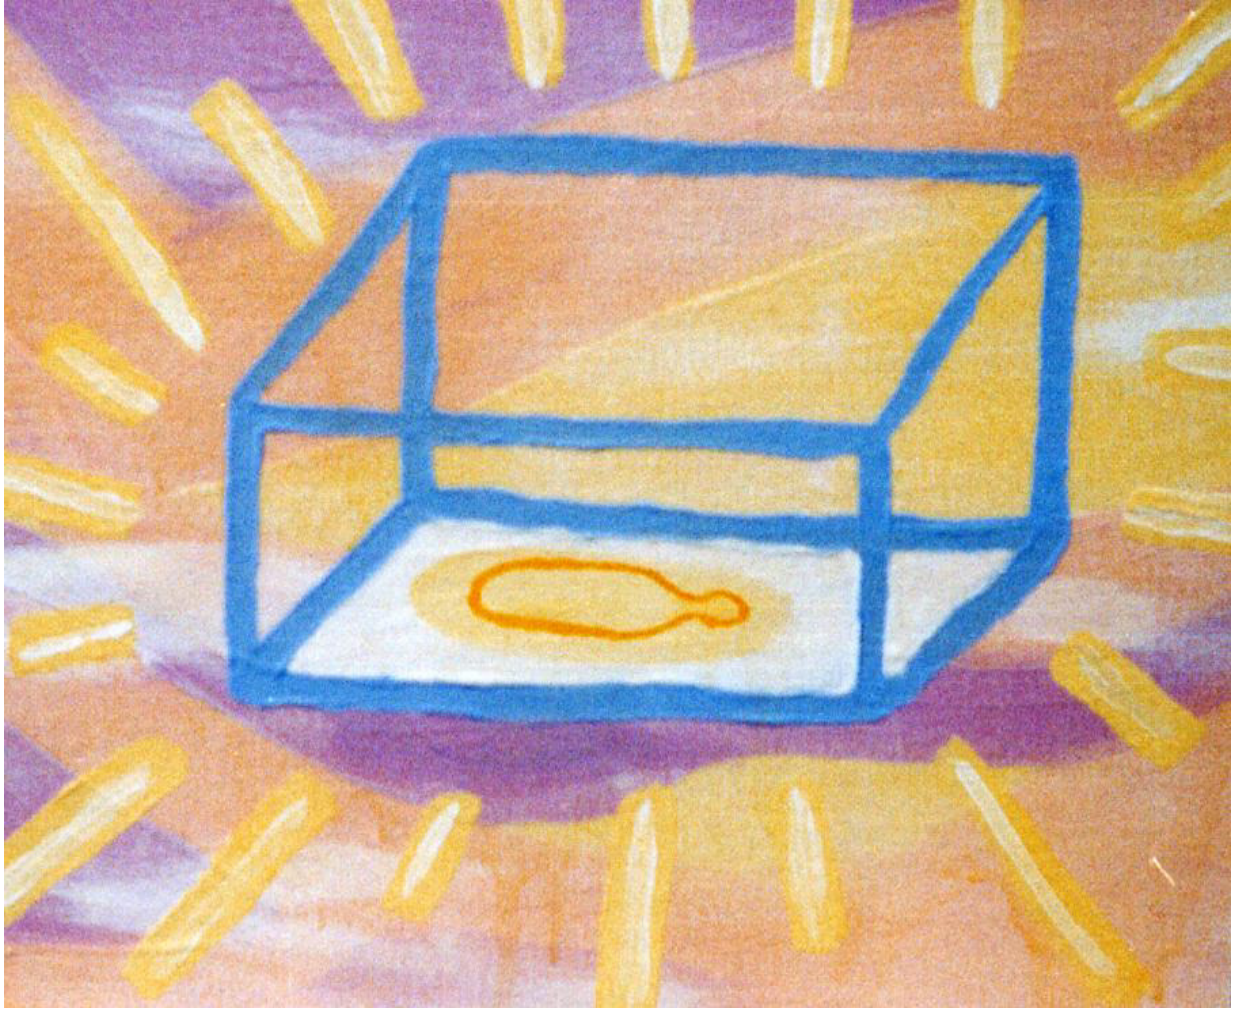

The former angel began to remember some of the ways of the angelic kingdom.

The Golden Angels began to teach her the things she had forgotten about the world of light.

Through prayer, she continued to gather knowledge of the higher worlds and how she might be able to bring the wisdom of those worlds into the Earth below.

Finally, it was time for the former angel to again practice some of her former angelic ways. As she gathered light in the galactic heavens, the Golden Angels also told her of souls who needed it. Flying back to the Earth, the former angel would visit them in their sleep, pouring starry light upon them and talking to them about peace and love. Sometimes, the former angel would be told about things that were going to happen and she would be sent into the energetic future so that she might be able to change it from the heavenlies. Seeding views of peace and love, she held back the energies of hatred, war and violence. Because Earth is filled with souls who are growing, the former angel would often plant seeds of remembrance within them. By doing so, they thought more deeply about the choices they were making and how they treated their fellow man.

When the humans of the Earth were thinking unkindly of others, or not seeing their own unkindness, the former angel would remind them of God's love and His wish that we love others as ourselves.

Sometimes, she would remind souls that God wishes them to be perfect as Our Heavenly Father is perfect, and thus, we must all look at our own faults honestly.

There were also times when she was asked to help with someone who was sick or making a decision that would have bad consequences.

In those instances, the former angel would be given the energetic ability to change the outcome of what they had done so that the soul's opportunity to grow and change would not be permanently affected by a very bad choice.

Thus, they might learn the lesson without paying the normal consequence in the hope that they would never make that bad choice again.

But during the day, the former angel was just a regular person like you and I.

Only her closest friends knew of her deep inner life and the adventures she would have at night with the Golden Angels.

To everyone else, the former angel was very normal and didn't seem in any way unique.

In fact, she was so ordinary that some of her friends sometimes thought she was a little bit boring.

But this did not bother the former angel because in her heart she knew that God had a special mission for her, even if nobody else on the entire Earth knew of it.

The Golden Angels had helped her to remember that God has a special mission for every person born on the Earth, each one unique and of infinite value.

The former angel could see in her fellow humanity the many infinite gifts of God and she sought to bring them out in others.

But all the while, the former angel always remembered that she, too, had become human and had taken on the image of fallen humanity.

Because of this, she made many mistakes and experienced suffering like all people.

The former angel saw how hard it was for humanity to rise above the things of the world, and soar to the heights of the heavens from the Earth.

Because so much darkness made it difficult to see the light, a soul had to really seek Divine Love in order to find it.

As the former angel neared the end of her own life, the Golden Angels prepared her for her return to the galactic heavens.

Many times, she was allowed to visit the worlds of light in order to prepare for her final journey into infinite love.

Knowing that her little sojourn to the Earth would help but a few souls, she prayed that her service to the Lord would be acceptable and worthy.

The former angel had done what she could, and now it was time to go.

As the time came for her to depart, she left behind her human form and took on a body of golden light.

The former angel was no more as she had become a returning Golden Angel.

Welcomed back into the galactic heavens with great joy, the Golden Angels congratulated her on a job well done.

In no time, the Golden Angel had remembered the many infinite worlds of light and was serving God in other multi-dimensional ways.

Then one day . . .

in the galactic heavens, somewhere around the 23rd dimension or so;

the Golden Angels were looking to the Earth from timelessness and the light.

They noticed that there was darkness and not enough light upon the Earth.

They all began to think and ponder as to what they might be able to do . . .
